Who had got the fire?

Who has got the 'Fire?' This issue our own Nixie Astrology sets off to find who sits under a lucky star. And what she found is not one But TWO very Hot finds.

According to one recent poll, the hottest properties of today are none other than our own Kopaka and Pohatu! We convinced them to take a moment out of their very busy schedule to talk exclusively to us!

Nixie: So, Kopaka and Pohatu, how does it feel to know the good people of Metru Nui think you two are -the- people to be seen with?

Pohatu: Absolutely thrilled. I had no idea I had so many big fans out there!

Hello to you all!

Kopaka: Naturally I'm not too bothered to have come in second.

Especially as it was just by one vote.

Pohatu: Still second.

Nixie: I'm going to have to ask you the question I'm sure everyone wants to know the answer to.

What do you look for in a girlfriend?

Kopaka: Well usually I'm in for the kin compassionate types. Someone who can respect your own personal space and isn't too up-front.

Pohatu: I don't think it's too much of a surprise to know I like energetic girls.

Athletic, sporty, reliable in a tight spot

Nixie: I notice you both seem to be describing Gali there...

Pohatu: Haha! No, I'm afraid Onua is more her type. Notice how she saves him in Ignition 14?

Kopaka: Sorry to disappoint all you fan-fiction writers. You know who you are.

Nixie: Gali and Onua? Really.

Pohatu: Yeah, it's because they both share similar ideals. Mainly that of Unity.

Kopaka: Basically she likes how Onua keeps saving Lewa's sorry behind from whatever trouble he gets in.

Pohatu: But if ever the two of them agree to split, I am so in there.

Nixie: If you could take your dream girl anywhere on a first date, where would you take her?

Pohatu: A beach. Definitely a beach. With the sun and the sand and the surf. We could bring a picnic, eat on a colorful rug when he got hungry, and take a dip in the sea if we got tired of the sun. Ah, bliss.

Kopaka: I would take her to a movie. A premiere if I could. I'd buy the popcorn, naturally.

We could sit at the back in the privacy of the dark and just talk to each other.

Nixie: That was almost poetic from the both of you

Kopaka: Why thank you

Nixie: Do you think that's one of the reasons people find you so attractive?

Kopaka: Possibly. I don't speak much, but when I do it's pure gold.

Pohatu: I think you have that 'lone wolf' appeal. Like Batman. Everybody loves Batman.

Kopaka: It's called charisma.

Nixie: Let's not forget your dazzling blue eyes.

Kopaka: You think so?

Nixie: And what about you Pohatu? What makes you so darn irresistible?

Pohatu: Apart from my devilishly good looks? I think, like Kopaka...

... it's my personality. I think I come across as the lovable rogue with a heart of gold.

Kopaka: So if I'm Batman you're Peter Pan?

Pohatu: I thought that was Lewa?

Nixie: If one of your many, many fans wanted to find you, how should they go about it?

Pohatu: You mean if they wanted to, I'm sorry Kopaka, chill?

Nixie: Yep.

Kopaka: Mount Ihu is usually a good place. Rocks for him, ice for me.

Pohatu: We're thinking of converting it into a massive bachelor pad for the pair of us.

Nixie: Ah, so you're still single then?

Pohatu: Oh yes. All you heart-struck ladies are in with a chance.

Nixie: You could give them a bigger chance by telling us how someone could go about chatting you up.

Pohatu: Act natural. I don't care if you're all nervous and jittery because I'm in the room, just be yourself. It's kinda cute.

Kopaka: You can have someone feeding your ego if you like, but I prefer someone who doesn't come on to me all touchy-feely. You know, someone who just wants to chat. They have an aura of mystique around them then, and that's very appealing to me.

Nixie: And what do you guys use as chat-up lines?

Pohatu: I don't actually have to use chat-up lines. I usually find I'm the life and soul of any party Lewa hasn't been invited to. My magnetic personality just attracts people to me.

Kopaka: It attracts Maha goats as well.

Pohatu: Oooh, the Gahlok-Kal incident, low blow Kopaka.

Nixie: So then Kopaka, what do you do?

Kopaka: I'll admit my chat-up lines are a bit cheesy.

Pohatu: Mine are as well if I choose to use them.

Kopaka: "excuse me miss. Would you mind giving directions? I got lost in your eyes"

Pohatu: "you must be an air Toa or something because you keep stealing my breath"

Kopaka: "I hear TSO has been searching for the greatest treasure in the universe. Sad he doesn't know you are standing right here"

Pohatu: "across the room I thought your body was punching but now I see it's kicking"

Kopaka: "Your father must be a light Toa and your mother a sonic Toa; because you light up the room when you sing"

Pohatu: "I hate to call you a thief, but I believe you stole my heart"

Nixie: Wow, I'm starry-eyed already. One last thing, Kopaka for all your fans reading this, will you do the line?

Kopaka: ...

Nixie: *giggle* Yay!

A grand question the great mystery behind why guys act the way they do. You look around and their everywhere, not only are their 5 other categories of matoran guys but each one has a different personality. But even in a mixed group you will find one or two acting... different when you stroll into the room. What is it about being blue that catches their eye like so? The Ta-matoran stare, the Le-Matoran stutter, the Onu-matoran ramble, the Po-matoran get all shy, and the Ko-matoran try and stand as close to you as possible taking in every word you say with the fascination of discovering a new star.

But after a few days of regular conversation they usually begin to relax and talk to you normally. That's natural boy behavior according to the teachers at Ga-Metru institution of behavior.

Then how do you know if they have feelings for you? Well one can only be sure after knowing said Boy for a period of time (5 minuets don't count, at least 2 or 3 months of working together). If he still can't seem to keep his head strait around you there may be something.

CAUTION: SOME GUYS MAY JUST BE LIKE THIS WITH IT AS PART OF THEIR PERSONALITY. HE MIGHT NOT BE THE BRIGHTEST SPARK PLUG IN THE BOX.

#1 rule in finding out if a guy likes you or not. NEVER ASK HIM STRAIT YOURSELF.

Guys tend to be fearful of rejection and also may be struggling with denial of their feelings. One must find a way of revealing them through his friends without letting them know they are doing it. A well known way is to ask if he behaves a certain way with some of his other guy friends. Acting concerned for their health is a good cover up for asking (it also helps get the word out that he has been slacking at work; a good wake up call).

Step #2 is to decipher the origin of his feelings.

If it is because you are just one of the most gorgeous Ga-Matoran out there then he is only one of the many who adore you. You should just shrug that off. Nothing good will come of it. If he likes you because you are smart, caring, a dedicated worker, skilled, and or really friendly and kind then that might be the start of something special.

Step #3 Who is this guy really and do I like him?

Ok so you know him from work and all but what is he like outside the workstation? Does he put on a happy go lucky face at work then become angry and hostile at his house? How does he treat his friends? How do his friends treat him? Does he use people?

How many other girls has he liked or hung out with, and what do they say about him? It is vary important to be able to answer these questions. And it is important to answer them before deciding if you like this matoran or not. Remember not to judge a guy by the color and cleanliness of his metal, or what sort of job he has. See who is inside before showing him the door.

Step #4 first move?

Has he been doing anything about his feelings? Has he asked you out yet? If not he might be nervous that you don't like him. Well if you do like him try and send a signal letting him know you are open to getting to know him a little better. Like asking him if he has any plans on the weekend for a little get together with a few friends; Even if he says no, keep it open, he might not be ready yet remember love is a risky thing. You must be sure your ready too, and it's good if you guys are friends too. If along the way you realize things aren't right you can always come to an understanding.

The less tears the better. @
