

Victims First Search Class

This course is designed to sharpen the mindset, skill set, and execution of the search firefighter operating on the modern day firegrounds.

During this course, students will be pushed through realistic, high-tempo training that reflects the conditions we actually face on the firegrounds. This class focuses on making decisions under pressure, operating with limited manpower, and executing proven search tactics that prioritize life. The course also emphasizes low staffing drills, ensuring crews can perform effectively even when resources are thin.

This is a physically and mentally demanding course that will challenge how you think about search, fire attack integration, and survivability. If your priority is aggressive, intelligent firefighting focused on saving lives, this class is for you.
