

WEATHER

U. S. OFFICIAL FORECAST
Cloudy, Cool Today;
Partly Cloudy Tonight;
Wednesday, Cloudy.
Temperatures Last 24 Hours:
High, 59; Low, 43.

Trenton Evening Times.

FINAL EDITION

74th YEAR—No. 5

PHONE—Classified—EXPORT 4-7571
All Others—EX-201

Trenton, N. J., Tuesday, October 18, 1955

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Trenton, N. J., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Five Cents

Police 'Brutality' Charges Fizzle

No Basis For Civil Rights Action, Says U. S.

United States Attorney Raymond Del Tufo Jr. said this afternoon that "there is absolutely no basis in fact for civil rights prosecutions" in two Trenton cases involving alleged police brutality.

One incident involved Mrs. Frances McNeill of 115 Mulberry Street, who said police mistreated her when she was arrested in a near-riot on Klagg Avenue Sept. 10.

The other concerned the fatal shooting of Robert J. Johnson Jr., 21, of 130 Spring Street by Trenton Patrolman Vincent Morrison last August.

Johnson was shot during an auto chase which ended near the New Sherwood Inn on North Olden Avenue in Ewing Township. An official police report later stated that he was killed by a ricocheted bullet fired accidentally from Morrison's .38 caliber revolver.

No Basis In Fact

Del Tufo said today that he has personally studied "exhaustive and detailed reports submitted by the FBI in both cases" and has concluded that there is no basis for prosecutions. He added that "the Department of Justice has reached the same conclusions on the basis of its completely independent review of all the facts."

Meanwhile, testimony was concluded in Mercer County today on Mrs. McNeill's appeal from a Trenton Police Court conviction on charges of disorderly conduct and assault. She was found guilty by Magistrate Albert Cooper and was fined $250 on each charge.

Judge Clifton C. Bennett told attorneys for both sides to file additional briefs in the appeal case. After this is done, he will announce his decision.

Assistant U. S. Attorney George H. Barlow Jr. said today that no formal civil rights violations charges had been filed in either case. He indicated that the FBI initiated the investigation in the Johnson case on the basis of newspaper stories. Barlow asked the FBI to investigate the McNeill matter after receiving an informal complaint from Clifford R. Moore, U. S. commissioner here.

Shot In Chase

Johnson, a Purple Heart veteran of the Korean campaign, was shot at the end of a wild police chase. Morrison and Patrolman James Vandergift were riding in an unmarked bandit patrol car which they said was almost struck by the auto Johnson was driving at Ingham and Hammit Avenues.

The chase led to a point near the New Sherwood at speeds up to 80 miles an hour. Both cars skidded to a stop. Then, according to Morrison, Johnson's car lurched forward, sidestepping the police car, causing the cop's gun to go off accidentally.

Mrs. McNeill was arrested by Patrolmen Lawrence Schrader and Alex Mizsak after a neighborhood quarrel on Klagg Avenue. In Mercer County today, Mrs. McNeill testified she was manhandled and roughly treated although she did not resist arrest. She said she was handcuffed. She testified that she had no recollection of biting Mizsak.

Later, Dr. John Brodthun of McGuire Air Force Base told Judge Bennett that he found Mrs. McNeill bruised about the shoulders, and chest when he examined her after her release by police.

Del Tufo Statement

In his statement, Del Tufo, who is U. S. Attorney for New Jersey, declared, "Federal civil rights statutes, like all other Federal statutes . . . are enforced vigorously and impartially without regard to race, color, creed, economic status or anything else." He added that this enforcement is automatic in that "it is not at all dependent upon the making of a formal or informal complaint by a private citizen."

As a matter of policy, he continued, "top priority is given to cases involving human rights and the same are investigated by the FBI, whose integrity, competence and vigilance in this and every other field within its jurisdiction have long since been established."

Joan Stricken Again

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—For the second time in recent weeks actress Joan Crawford has collapsed at work. She went home yesterday with a bronchial infection and high fever. A few weeks ago it was back trouble. Her movie has been halted until she recovers.

Today's Features

- Amusements 23
Classified Ads 27 to 31
Comics 22
Cross Word Puzzle 16
Deaths 4
Editorials 14
Radio & Television 20
Sports 24-25-26
Suburban 18
Women's 10-11

Area Hit By Flood Rebuilds

Rehabilitation Program To Be Pushed In 7 States

HARTFORD, Conn. (UP)—A multi-million dollar rehabilitation program moved into high gear today in the seven state area battered by flood waters which have claimed almost 50 lives.

Federal Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson took personal charge of the rebuilding program and promised to "see that red tape is cut" to restore the devastated area.

He said $11,670,000 in government funds would be used immediately to clear flood debris, open roads and give necessary relief.

The signal for the huge rehabilitation task came with the announcement by Gov. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut that the "worst is over."

Streams Within Banks

Nearly all streams in the flooded states were back within their banks today but the flood toll stood at 48 dead, an estimated 500 million dollars damage and more than 25,000 homeless.

The bulk of the damage was in Connecticut, which reported 22 dead, and 4,500 families driven from their homes.

New York and New Jersey also suffered extreme devastation and Gov. Averell Harriman of New York telegraphed President Eisenhower, asking for help.

How that stricken area was more extensive than in the August floods which took a toll of 75 dead and 12 missing.

Many persons evacuated to high ground when the floods struck last Friday returned to their homes. Peterson said he was ready to "throw the whole government" into the rehabilitation program.

Red Cross workers, National Guardsmen, Civil Defense officials and Army personnel joined government agencies in the restoration work.

Pumping Flooded Plants

Industries used their own facilities to pump out flooded plants and prepare for resumption of production.

Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson promised "all possible help" in the recovery program.

Army engineers surveyed damage and made plans to ease the runoff of flood waters.

Brig. Gen. Robert J. Fleming Jr., New England Chief of Army Engineers, said damage was held down because stream channels had been cleared of debris after the August floods.

And The Tiger Roared—With Glee

Princeton University's campus yesterday was about as co-ed as a place can get. Here, with their undergraduate escorts are two of the 100 or more girls "stranded" at Princeton by the Northeast storm. The girls had their date-

weekend extended unexpectedly when transportation home was disrupted by floods. So they stayed over and accompanied their dates to the library and morning classes. Strolling here, left to right, are: Jerry Aldrich, a junior student from New Lon-

don, Conn.; Miss Shirley Zimmerman and Miss Laura Reilly, both also of New London, and Charles Brown, a junior from Boston. Most of the storm "stranded" were from Mount Holyoke, Smith, Vassar and Wellesley Colleges.

Princeton University's campus yesterday was about as co-ed as a place can get. Here, with their undergraduate escorts are two of the 100 or more girls "stranded" at Princeton by the Northeast storm. The girls had their date-

weekend extended unexpectedly when transportation home was disrupted by floods. So they stayed over and accompanied their dates to the library and morning classes. Strolling here, left to right, are: Jerry Aldrich, a junior student from New Lon-

don, Conn.; Miss Shirley Zimmerman and Miss Laura Reilly, both also of New London, and Charles Brown, a junior from Boston. Most of the storm "stranded" were from Mount Holyoke, Smith, Vassar and Wellesley Colleges.

Princeton University's campus yesterday was about as co-ed as a place can get. Here, with their undergraduate escorts are two of the 100 or more girls "stranded" at Princeton by the Northeast storm. The girls had their date-

weekend extended unexpectedly when transportation home was disrupted by floods. So they stayed over and accompanied their dates to the library and morning classes. Strolling here, left to right, are: Jerry Aldrich, a junior student from New Lon-

don, Conn.; Miss Shirley Zimmerman and Miss Laura Reilly, both also of New London, and Charles Brown, a junior from Boston. Most of the storm "stranded" were from Mount Holyoke, Smith, Vassar and Wellesley Colleges.

Princeton University's campus yesterday was about as co-ed as a place can get. Here, with their undergraduate escorts are two of the 100 or more girls "stranded" at Princeton by the Northeast storm. The girls had their date-

weekend extended unexpectedly when transportation home was disrupted by floods. So they stayed over and accompanied their dates to the library and morning classes. Strolling here, left to right, are: Jerry Aldrich, a junior student from New Lon-

don, Conn.; Miss Shirley Zimmerman and Miss Laura Reilly, both also of New London, and Charles Brown, a junior from Boston. Most of the storm "stranded" were from Mount Holyoke, Smith, Vassar and Wellesley Colleges.

Princeton University's campus yesterday was about as co-ed as a place can get. Here, with their undergraduate escorts are two of the 100 or more girls "stranded" at Princeton by the Northeast storm. The girls had their date-

weekend extended unexpectedly when transportation home was disrupted by floods. So they stayed over and accompanied their dates to the library and morning classes. Strolling here, left to right, are: Jerry Aldrich, a junior student from New Lon-

don, Conn.; Miss Shirley Zimmerman and Miss Laura Reilly, both also of New London, and Charles Brown, a junior from Boston. Most of the storm "stranded" were from Mount Holyoke, Smith, Vassar and Wellesley Colleges.

Princeton University's campus yesterday was about as co-ed as a place can get. Here, with their undergraduate escorts are two of the 100 or more girls "stranded" at Princeton by the Northeast storm. The girls had their date-

weekend extended unexpectedly when transportation home was disrupted by floods. So they stayed over and accompanied their dates to the library and morning classes. Strolling here, left to right, are: Jerry Aldrich, a junior student from New Lon-

don, Conn.; Miss Shirley Zimmerman and Miss Laura Reilly, both also of New London, and Charles Brown, a junior from Boston. Most of the storm "stranded" were from Mount Holyoke, Smith, Vassar and Wellesley Colleges.

Princeton University's campus yesterday was about as co-ed as a place can get. Here, with their undergraduate escorts are two of the 100 or more girls "stranded" at Princeton by the Northeast storm. The girls had their date-

weekend extended unexpectedly when transportation home was disrupted by floods. So they stayed over and accompanied their dates to the library and morning classes. Strolling here, left to right, are: Jerry Aldrich, a junior student from New Lon-

don, Conn.; Miss Shirley Zimmerman and Miss Laura Reilly, both also of New London, and Charles Brown, a junior from Boston. Most of the storm "stranded" were from Mount Holyoke, Smith, Vassar and Wellesley Colleges.

Princeton University's campus yesterday was about as co-ed as a place can get. Here, with their undergraduate escorts are two of the 100 or more girls "stranded" at Princeton by the Northeast storm. The girls had their date-

weekend extended unexpectedly when transportation home was disrupted by floods. So they stayed over and accompanied their dates to the library and morning classes. Strolling here, left to right, are: Jerry Aldrich, a junior student from New Lon-

Area Hit By Flood Rebuilds

Rehabilitation Program To Be Pushed In 7 States

HARTFORD, Conn. (UP)—A multi-million dollar rehabilitation program moved into high gear today in the seven state area battered by flood waters which have claimed almost 50 lives.

Federal Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson took personal charge of the rebuilding program and promised to "see that red tape is cut" to restore the devastated area.

He said $11,670,000 in government funds would be used immediately to clear flood debris, open roads and give necessary relief.

The signal for the huge rehabilitation task came with the announcement by Gov. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut that the "worst is over."

Streams Within Banks

Nearly all streams in the flooded states were back within their banks today but the flood toll stood at 48 dead, an estimated 500 million dollars damage and more than 25,000 homeless.

The bulk of the damage was in Connecticut, which reported 22 dead, and 4,500 families driven from their homes.

New York and New Jersey also suffered extreme devastation and Gov. Averell Harriman of New York telegraphed President Eisenhower, asking for help.

How that stricken area was more extensive than in the August floods which took a toll of 75 dead and 12 missing.

Many persons evacuated to high ground when the floods struck last Friday returned to their homes. Peterson said he was ready to "throw the whole government" into the rehabilitation program.

Red Cross workers, National Guardsmen, Civil Defense officials and Army personnel joined government agencies in the restoration work.

Pumping Flooded Plants

Industries used their own facilities to pump out flooded plants and prepare for resumption of production.

Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson promised "all possible help" in the recovery program.

Army engineers surveyed damage and made plans to ease the runoff of flood waters.

Brig. Gen. Robert J. Fleming Jr., New England Chief of Army Engineers, said damage was held down because stream channels had been cleared of debris after the August floods.

And The Tiger Roared—With Glee

Princeton University's campus yesterday was about as co-ed as a place can get. Here, with their undergraduate escorts are two of the 100 or more girls "stranded" at Princeton by the Northeast storm. The girls had their date-

weekend extended unexpectedly when transportation home was disrupted by floods. So they stayed over and accompanied their dates to the library and morning classes. Strolling here, left to right, are: Jerry Aldrich, a junior student from New Lon-

don, Conn.; Miss Shirley Zimmerman and Miss Laura Reilly, both also of New London, and Charles Brown, a junior from Boston. Most of the storm "stranded" were from Mount Holyoke, Smith, Vassar and Wellesley Colleges.

Princeton University's campus yesterday was about as co-ed as a place can get. Here, with their undergraduate escorts are two of the 100 or more girls "stranded" at Princeton by the Northeast storm. The girls had their date-

weekend extended unexpectedly when transportation home was disrupted by floods. So they stayed over and accompanied their dates to the library and morning classes. Strolling here, left to right, are: Jerry Aldrich, a junior student from New Lon-

don, Conn.; Miss Shirley Zimmerman and Miss Laura Reilly, both also of New London, and Charles Brown, a junior from Boston. Most of the storm "stranded" were from Mount Holyoke, Smith, Vassar and Wellesley Colleges.

Princeton University's campus yesterday was about as co-ed as a place can get. Here, with their undergraduate escorts are two of the 100 or more girls "stranded" at Princeton by the Northeast storm. The girls had their date-

weekend extended unexpectedly when transportation home was disrupted by floods. So they stayed over and accompanied their dates to the library and morning classes. Strolling here, left to right, are: Jerry Aldrich, a junior student from New Lon-

don, Conn.; Miss Shirley Zimmerman and Miss Laura Reilly, both also of New London, and Charles Brown, a junior from Boston. Most of the storm "stranded" were from Mount Holyoke, Smith, Vassar and Wellesley Colleges.

Princeton University's campus yesterday was about as co-ed as a place can get. Here, with their undergraduate escorts are two of the 100 or more girls "stranded" at Princeton by the Northeast storm. The girls had their date-

weekend extended unexpectedly when transportation home was disrupted by floods. So they stayed over and accompanied their dates to the library and morning classes. Strolling here, left to right, are: Jerry Aldrich, a junior student from New Lon-

don, Conn.; Miss Shirley Zimmerman and Miss Laura Reilly, both also of New London, and Charles Brown, a junior from Boston. Most of the storm "stranded" were from Mount Holyoke, Smith, Vassar and Wellesley Colleges.

Princeton University's campus yesterday was about as co-ed as a place can get. Here, with their undergraduate escorts are two of the 100 or more girls "stranded" at Princeton by the Northeast storm. The girls had their date-

weekend extended unexpectedly when transportation home was disrupted by floods. So they stayed over and accompanied their dates to the library and morning classes. Strolling here, left to right, are: Jerry Aldrich, a junior student from New Lon-

don, Conn.; Miss Shirley Zimmerman and Miss Laura Reilly, both also of New London, and Charles Brown, a junior from Boston. Most of the storm "stranded" were from Mount Holyoke, Smith, Vassar and Wellesley Colleges.

Princeton University's campus yesterday was about as co-ed as a place can get. Here, with their undergraduate escorts are two of the 100 or more girls "stranded" at Princeton by the Northeast storm. The girls had their date-

weekend extended unexpectedly when transportation home was disrupted by floods. So they stayed over and accompanied their dates to the library and morning classes. Strolling here, left to right, are: Jerry Aldrich, a junior student from New Lon-

don, Conn.; Miss Shirley Zimmerman and Miss Laura Reilly, both also of New London, and Charles Brown, a junior from Boston. Most of the storm "stranded" were from Mount Holyoke, Smith, Vassar and Wellesley Colleges.

Princeton University's campus yesterday was about as co-ed as a place can get. Here, with their undergraduate escorts are two of the 100 or more girls "stranded" at Princeton by the Northeast storm. The girls had their date-

weekend extended unexpectedly when transportation home was disrupted by floods. So they stayed over and accompanied their dates to the library and morning classes. Strolling here, left to right, are: Jerry Aldrich, a junior student from New Lon-

don, Conn.; Miss Shirley Zimmerman and Miss Laura Reilly, both also of New London, and Charles Brown, a junior from Boston. Most of the storm "stranded" were from Mount Holyoke, Smith, Vassar and Wellesley Colleges.

Princeton University's campus yesterday was about as co-ed as a place can get. Here, with their undergraduate escorts are two of the 100 or more girls "stranded" at Princeton by the Northeast storm. The girls had their date-

weekend extended unexpectedly when transportation home was disrupted by floods. So they stayed over and accompanied their dates to the library and morning classes. Strolling here, left to right, are: Jerry Aldrich, a junior student from New Lon-

Heart-Broken By Tragedy

Peter Calls On Princess Margaret, Cabinet, Family Consider Romance

LONDON (AP)—Peter Townsend, called on Princess Margaret at Clarence House today soon after a Cabinet meeting reportedly concerned with their romance broke up at 10 Downing St.

The Queen Mother Elizabeth was at Clarence House when Townsend arrived but left five minutes later. She is reported to be a staunch supporter of the love match that has England bubbling with excitement.

Shortly before Townsend, handsome 40-year-old RAF group captain, paid his tea-time call on Princess Margaret, Prime Minister Eden ended a two-hour meeting of his Cabinet, called apparently to discuss the controversial romance.

Queen Elizabeth II returned earlier in the day from a long Scottish holiday to face the rising uproar over the romance. The Townsend call kept intact his record of seeing the Princess at least once a day the past six days.

The guard outside Clarence House was being changed as Townsend drove up but the ancient ceremony was not interrupted.

Down the tree-lined mall 200 yards away Queen Elizabeth waited at Buckingham Palace for a call this evening from Prime Minister Eden.

The royal train bringing the monarch and her two children arrived at grimy Euston Station in mid-morning after an overnight trip from Balmoral Castle.

The Queen remained in the station a few minutes and then drove off with Prince Charles and Princess Anne to Buckingham Palace, only a short walk away from Clarence House where Princess Margaret lives with Queen Mother Elizabeth.

High on the monarch's "things to do" was a family confab tonight with her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, her mother and her sister.

It will be the first face-to-face discussion between the sisters since Margaret and Townsend met last week after a two-year separation and then spent a weekend together in the English countryside.

Meanwhile, the 25-year-old princess, caught in the middle of a big love vs. duty debate, appeared to be suffering from a slight case of nerves.

There were spreading whispers that, under increasing pressure, she might decide after all to give up her Royal Air Force hero of the Battle of Britain, who will be 41 next month. He is the divorced father of two children.

That, under increasing pressure, she might decide after all to give up her Royal Air Force hero of the Battle of Britain, who will be 41 next month. He is the divorced father of two children.

That, under increasing pressure, she might decide after all to give up her Royal Air Force hero of the Battle of Britain, who will be 41 next month. He is the divorced father of two children.

That, under increasing pressure, she might decide after all to give up her Royal Air Force hero of the Battle of Britain, who will be 41 next month. He is the divorced father of two children.

That, under increasing pressure, she might decide after all to give up her Royal Air Force hero of the Battle of Britain, who will be 41 next month. He is the divorced father of two children.

That, under increasing pressure, she might decide after all to give up her Royal Air Force hero of the Battle of Britain, who will be 41 next month. He is the divorced father of two children.

That, under increasing pressure, she might decide after all to give up her Royal Air Force hero of the Battle of Britain, who will be 41 next month. He is the divorced father of two children.

That, under increasing pressure, she might decide after all to give up her Royal Air Force hero of the Battle of Britain, who will be 41 next month. He is the divorced father of two children.

That, under increasing pressure, she might decide after all to give up her Royal Air Force hero of the Battle of Britain, who will be 41 next month. He is the divorced father of two children.

That, under increasing pressure, she might decide after all to give up her Royal Air Force hero of the Battle of Britain, who will be 41 next month. He is the divorced father of two children.

That, under increasing pressure, she might decide after all to give up her Royal Air Force hero of the Battle of Britain, who will be 41 next month. He is the divorced father of two children.

That, under increasing pressure, she might decide after all to give up her Royal Air Force hero of the Battle of Britain, who will be 41 next month. He is the divorced father of two children.

That, under increasing pressure, she might decide after all to give up her Royal Air Force hero of the Battle of Britain, who will be 41 next month. He is the divorced father of two children.

That, under increasing pressure, she might decide after all to give up her Royal Air Force hero of the Battle of Britain, who will be 41 next month. He is the divorced father of two children.

That, under increasing pressure, she might decide after all to give up her Royal Air Force hero of the Battle of Britain, who will be 41 next month. He is the divorced father of two children.

That, under increasing pressure, she might decide after all to give up her Royal Air Force hero of the Battle of Britain, who will be 41 next month. He is the divorced father of two children.

Plane Victim

Times-United Press Facsimile Eugene Lyle, Stunned by tragedy, comforts his wife after a light plane crashed into an apartment house killing their daughter, Mrs. Betty Wolf, an 18-year-old bride (photo at right). Also killed were a two-month-old baby who had been baptized only two hours earlier and millionaire sportsman Joel W. Thorne, 40, pilot of the plane.

Found Dead In McKonkey Ferry House

Mrs. Jessie Bronson Field was found dead yesterday afternoon in the McKonkey Ferry House in Washington Crossing State Park, where she was caretaker since January 1, 1940.

Mrs. Field's body was found shortly before 5 p. m. by Walter Sharp, a park helper, and Marvin Grupp, a draftsman. She is believed to have died early Sunday morning.

Mrs. Field was born in Trenton, daughter of the late Lewis E. and Jennie A. Standiford Howell. She was a graduate of Trenton High School and later studied music at the Hewitt Training School. She taught music for five years in the old McKinley School on Mercer Street.

After the death of her husband, Charles P. Field, who was chief engineer at the State House for 37 years, Mrs. Field found temporary employment in six different state departments and taught music at Skillman Village before going to the McKonkey House.

During her years as caretaker, Mrs. Field had played host to thousands of school children, teachers, servicemen and sight-seers from all parts of the country.

Mrs. Field is survived by a sister, Mrs. May Hulise of Adams, N. J., and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 10 a. m. at Ivins & Taylor, 77 Prospect Street, with the Rev. J. Stanley Wagg of First Methodist Church officiating. Interment will be in Riverview Cemetery. Friends may call Thursday evening.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 10 a. m. at Ivins & Taylor, 77 Prospect Street, with the Rev. J. Stanley Wagg of First Methodist Church officiating. Interment will be in Riverview Cemetery. Friends may call Thursday evening.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 10 a. m. at Ivins & Taylor, 77 Prospect Street, with the Rev. J. Stanley Wagg of First Methodist Church officiating. Interment will be in Riverview Cemetery. Friends may call Thursday evening.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 10 a. m. at Ivins & Taylor, 77 Prospect Street, with the Rev. J. Stanley Wagg of First Methodist Church officiating. Interment will be in Riverview Cemetery. Friends may call Thursday evening.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 10 a. m. at Ivins & Taylor, 77 Prospect Street, with the Rev. J. Stanley Wagg of First Methodist Church officiating. Interment will be in Riverview Cemetery. Friends may call Thursday evening.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 10 a. m. at Ivins & Taylor, 77 Prospect Street, with the Rev. J. Stanley Wagg of First Methodist Church officiating. Interment will be in Riverview Cemetery. Friends may call Thursday evening.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 10 a. m. at Ivins & Taylor, 77 Prospect Street, with the Rev. J. Stanley Wagg of First Methodist Church officiating. Interment will be in Riverview Cemetery. Friends may call Thursday evening.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 10 a. m. at Ivins & Taylor, 77 Prospect Street, with the Rev. J. Stanley Wagg of First Methodist Church officiating. Interment will be in Riverview Cemetery. Friends may call Thursday evening.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 10 a. m. at Ivins & Taylor, 77 Prospect Street, with the Rev. J. Stanley Wagg of First Methodist Church officiating. Interment will be in Riverview Cemetery. Friends may call Thursday evening.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 10 a. m. at Ivins & Taylor, 77 Prospect Street, with the Rev. J. Stanley Wagg of First Methodist Church officiating. Interment will be in Riverview Cemetery. Friends may call Thursday evening.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 10 a. m. at Ivins & Taylor, 77 Prospect Street, with the Rev. J. Stanley Wagg of First Methodist Church officiating. Interment will be in Riverview Cemetery. Friends may call Thursday evening.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 10 a. m. at Ivins & Taylor, 77 Prospect Street, with the Rev. J. Stanley Wagg of First Methodist Church officiating. Interment will be in Riverview Cemetery. Friends may call Thursday evening.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 10 a. m. at Ivins & Taylor, 77 Prospect Street, with the Rev. J. Stanley Wagg of First Methodist Church officiating. Interment will be in Riverview Cemetery. Friends may call Thursday evening.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 10 a. m. at Ivins & Taylor, 77 Prospect Street, with the Rev. J. Stanley Wagg of First Methodist Church officiating. Interment will be in Riverview Cemetery. Friends may call Thursday evening.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 10 a. m. at Ivins & Taylor, 77 Prospect Street, with the Rev. J. Stanley Wagg of First Methodist Church officiating. Interment will be in Riverview Cemetery. Friends may call Thursday evening.

Funeral services will