Symphony Orchestra Planned For Children Here 10 to 16

Plans are under way here for the formation of a Junior Symphony Orchestra for children 10 to 16 years of age. The project has been inaugurated by the Youth Symphony of Trenton Inc. with Dr. Milton Canter as chairman. Jay Hauenstein, solo clarinetist with the Youth Symphony Orchestra since its inception and a student at State Teachers College, has been appointed conductor. It is planned to graduate members of the Junior Orchestra into the Youth Symphony as they reach the ages of 15 or 16 and if they show sufficient ability and progress. Parents desiring to enter children 10 to 16 in the new orchestra should contact Mrs. Michael Coleman, 938 Park Avenue, Hamilton Township. Public and parochial schools of the Delaware Valley area will be contacted for applicants for membership. In addition to Dr. Canter and Mrs. Coleman, other members of the committee include the Rev. William T. Warren, the Rev. John J. Endebrook, George I. Tilton, William L. McElmoyl, Mrs. Faye Tauber, Dr. Joseph Isserman, Michael Coleman, Max Katz, Harold H. Kreehmer, Miss Joanna Messerschmitt, Albert W. Wassell and Charles A. Gaudette.

Eisenhower Plans Visit To Greece and Turkey

PARIS, Feb. 23 (UP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is planning to visit Greece and Turkey and it is "highly probable" he will go early next month, his Atlantic Pact headquarters said today. An official spokesman said, however, that Eisenhower still did not plan to visit the United States "in the foreseeable future." There have been mounting demands that he come home and help backers who are trying to win the Republican presidential nomination for him. "It is highly probable the general will visit Greece and Turkey in early March," the spokesman said. He pointed out that Eisenhower visited all other North Atlantic Treaty nations when he assumed supreme command in Europe. The spokesman's statement was the first official comment from Eisenhower's headquarters on a statement in Lisbon yesterday by Greek Foreign Minister Sophocles Venizelos that Eisenhower was going to visit his country. Eisenhower's visit will take him to the two nations whose military forces add 40 divisions to the North Atlantic powers' potential punch. He will also see bases which show Western military might within striking distance of Russia's vital Baku oilfields. Turkey's 30 divisions are rated about as combat ready and effective as any in the world, while Greece's ten divisions have been given intensive training under American direction. While announcing the general's plans to visit the two new NATO member nations, the spokesman said: "There is still no change in the general's position that no trip to the United States is planned in the foreseeable future." Eisenhower's supporters want

St. Anthony's Revue, Show Starts Today

Final plans have been made for the staging of the St. Anthony's Minstrel and Revue. It will take place this afternoon with a matinee performance and tonight and tomorrow evenings. The new St. Anthony's stage and special lighting will be used for the first time. President Edward J. Kelly announced that more than 100 members will participate in the performance. William Buffin will be interlocutor. Since this will be the first performance in the new auditorium, the Holy Name Society is endeavoring to make this a gala parish affair. A large committee, under the chairmanship of Joseph A. Cicon, is aiding in the production of the show which the society plans to make an annual affair. The following members will participate in the chorus: Peter Mesheky, Louis Pollard, Joseph S. Petrino, John Rich, Edward Kelly, Frank Smith, Richard McCoy, Charles (Pat) Calderone, Walter F. Buckley, J. Richard Pollard, Thomas J. Sayers, Daniel O'Reilly, John Goodwin, Robert Dietrick, John Sullivan, Stephen K. Stewart, E. B. Anderson, H. J. Panacek, Lee Thompson, John Carroll, M. J. Grelton, William Smith, Thomas Bates, Joseph Gorman, George Capewell, Jacob L. Krebs, Lige Hutton, August Hennings, Thomas L. Callahan, Edward Slavin, Edward J. Kelly, Emil Johnson, Frank Hannawacker and Joseph DeVeronica. In the revue, which will be staged in connection with the minstrel, the following will be featured: Joseph Falacci at the piano; Frank Battaglia in a tap number; Joe Cicon and Frank Brady in a comedy number; Gary Pentz in a phono-mimic number; and Carmen Giovacchini on the drums. The stage and seating committee is comprised of J. Albert DeBlouis Sr., Fred Adams, John A. Colacello, William Ostermier, Julian Henck and Hugh Brennan. The door committee will be F. J. Damiano, Matthew Gelak and Donald DeBlouis. The ushers will be Edward Phean, William Brennan, Francis Burger and James Boney.

Communists Teachers Will Take Over Job

HONG KONG—AP—The Shanghai Communist party newspaper Liberation Daily says special Communist party teachers are going to take over the political education of one million industrial workers in East China. Labor union commissars supposedly have been teaching the workers Communism right along, but apparently it didn't take. The newspaper said "some of the workers still adopt an attitude of indifference."

Toronto's Aldermen Seen Exploited Group

TORONTO—AP—Toronto's 18 aldermen are "the most exploited group of workers in the city," says Ford Brand, member of the Board of Control. He said in a recent speech that on an hourly basis, the $1,200 paid annually to the aldermen averages 37 cents an hour.

Sees Weight In Charge McGrath a Millionaire

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (UP)—A House investigator said today he understands Harold E. Stassen "does have some credible evidence" to back his charges that Attorney General J. Howard McGrath became a millionaire while in public office. The assertion was made by Rep. Patrick J. Hillings (R-Cal), a member of the House Judiciary subcommittee which has tackled the task of investigating the Justice Department's prosecuting activities, or lack of them, in the past six years. McGrath will be called before the subcommittee. But whether Stassen's charges would prompt an earlier call than had been planned was conjectural. Subcommittee Chairman Frank L. Chelf (D-Ky) said "we had planned all along to call McGrath in due time and in due course." Hillings said it appeared the matter should be the first subject to be considered. He said McGrath should be asked to appear at an early date "so we can consider this right off the bat." He said McGrath should have the opportunity to "give his side." Stassen, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, promised to cooperate with the subcommittee. He suggested that McGrath "promptly be called and placed under oath for the inquiry." The subcommittee asked for Stassen's information after he charged he had persistent, confidential reports that McGrath had become a millionaire during his 12 years of public office dating from his election as governor of Rhode Island in 1940. Chelf said the question of calling Stassen would have to be decided by the subcommittee. Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (R-NY), senior GOP member of the subcommittee, said he was "grateful" for Stassen's offer to cooperate. The subcommittee's investigation promises to be long, laborious, and painstaking. The records it has asked the Justice Department to provide in 30 days cover years in which Supreme Court Justice Tom C. Clark was attorney general and head of the department. Hillings said he has suggested that Clark be called to explain why he put T. Lamar Caudie in the Justice Department. Caudie was fired recently by President Truman as assistant attorney general. However, Chelf said that, as for calling Clark, "we'll cross that bridge when we come to it." He said the six-year period was agreed to by the subcommittee as a compromise. Some members had suggested three years, he said, others five or 10 years. The investigation is designed, among other things, to find out whether there were any "unreasonable delays or failure" to prosecute wrong-doers.

Martha Raye's Wide Mouth Slugged In 'Messy' Brawl With Television Salesman

MIAMI BEACH, Feb. 23 (UP)—Comedienne Martha Raye was slugged in her big, famous mouth today in a "messy" row with a New York television salesman at her Five O'Clock Club. The husky-voiced vocalist signed an assault and battery warrant against Francis Serpico, 32, of Flushing, Long Island, N. Y., charging that he "gave me a bust in the mouth when I slapped him after he called me 'bad names.'" Serpico—battered by bouncers and Miss Raye's fourth and current husband, dancer Nick Condos, was released under a $200 bond under orders to appear in City Court Monday. Miss Raye, clad in a nifty white swimsuit, showed United Press her battle wounds in an interview at her cottage overlooking Surprise Lake here. Her left underlip was cut and swollen, but her trumpet-like voice flowed with as much vigor as ever. "It all started she said, 'when this guy comes in with a date and starts fussing for a drink. Well, it's three o'clock or so and the bar's closed for the night. I tell him this and he starts cussing.'" "When he called me low, real low names, I let him have it with a slap across the face," she said. "So he comes right back with a fist that bops me right here," she indicated the mouth that made her movie and night club fame. "I don't know which hand it was, it came so fast... and he's a big guy too." Miss Raye said her husband and "a couple of the fellows around the club" stepped in then. They hustled him out of the club and battered him about on the sidewalk in front of the club, she said. Police stopped the tussle and took Serpico to headquarters. The extent of damage suffered by him was not determined immediately. Officers said he made no statement before walking out of the police station and disappearing. Martha said she will be right back at the Five O'Clock Club again tonight, singing those loud and low down swing tunes as usual. "It takes more than one punch to get an Irishman down," she said, and laughed and looked Irish.

Guide Dog Walks to Altar As Blind Girl Plights Troth

CHICAGO, Feb. 23 (UP)—A man, a girl and a dog stood today before the altar of Holy Name Cathedral. The man and girl were there to be married. The dog was there because the girl is blind. Tall, handsome Pfc. William Womack, 22, and petite, blonde Kathleen Frances May made an attractive couple. Friends agreed. Womack is an X-ray student in the Air Force. His bride is a former ballet dancer, who lost her sight last June, but not her zest for living. "I'm just about the luckiest girl alive," she said, "and I'm marrying the most wonderful guy in the world." The bride, wearing a white satin gown, walked down the aisle on the arm of Isaac Chappelle, a family friend. The groom's best man was Pfc. Don Harman, Los Angeles, also of the Air Force. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. John Marren. Afterward, the bride's guide dog, Bronze, a German shepherd, led the couple outside to a car in which they rode to the wedding reception. "Naturally, we don't have any definite plans, because Bill is in the Air Force," the bride said. "But it's all so wonderful." She said she fell in love at a party when she heard Womack sing a chorus of "Old Man River" in a rich baritone. "He's got one of those voices that makes you want to curl up by a fireplace," she said, "and I don't mean with a book." "I don't know what I was stricken with glaucoma last summer, and operations failed to restore her vision." "I don't mind blindness so much as the way people treat you," she said. "I don't need sympathy." "Life is too wonderful to let a thing like that get you down for good."

Hamilton Square YMCA Directors Select Officers

At a recent meeting of the Hamilton Square YMCA board of directors, Thomas Holden was elected president for the coming year, succeeding G. Howard Nugent in that post. John Coulton will serve as vice president; Joseph Jorczak, secretary and J. Bert La Selle, treasurer. New directors elected were Charles Mitchell, and John Smith. Thomas Holden and Elmer Everett were re-elected to the board of directors. Earl Freyberger, Victor Mueller, and the Rev. H. H. McConnell were elected to the advisory committee. Plans are being made by the board for the annual membership campaign and Y world service contributions. The world service program of the Y will also be the theme of a church union service in Hamilton Square to be held in March. It was announced that the Hamilton Square YMCA father and son banquet will be held in April, as will the Easter Egg Hunt. Joseph Jorczak, group work chairman of the Hamilton Square Y, announced that the Indian Guide Club and a new parent-sponsored special activity group based on stamp collecting are meeting regularly each week. A new Indian Guide Club has been organized in Mercerville with Charles Mitchell serving as chairman. The next meeting of the board of directors will be held on March 14 at the home of Joseph Jorczak. The Hamilton Square Y is affiliated with the Mercer County Federation of YMCAs of the Delaware Valley United Fund.

Girls At 24 Have Best Bridal Chance

FRANKFURT, Germany—AP—Salesgirls who are 24 have the best chance to get married in Germany, which has a surplus of 2,800,000 women. Young housemaids run a close second in nuptial prospects, a survey by the West German Statistical Bureau indicates. But the bureau estimates that 1,000,000 German girls never will get married. Next to 24-year-olds, those who are 22 and 19 are most likely to find husbands. For the group between 26 and 39, it's liable to be a lonely existence. Over 40, demand again picks up. A well-groomed widow with an apartment of her own is sure-fire to receive proposals.

Painting of Washington's Crossing Unveiled

George Washington's Birthday was appropriately commemorated Friday with the unveiling of the famous painting, "Washington Crossing the Delaware," in the Methodist Church at Washington Crossing, Pa. The large canvas has been loaned for two years by the New York Metropolitan Museum. Inspecting the painting, from left to right, are the Rev. Jesse Eaton, pastor of the church; Dr. Charles W. Kitto, district superintendent of the Methodist Church; Major Walter C. Carroll Jr. of Princeton, a veteran of the Korean war, who was the principal speaker; Mrs. Ann Hawkes Hutton, publicity chairman of the park commission; State Senator Edward B. Watson and Congressman Earl C. King of Morrisville. In keeping with the occasion, employees of the Washington Crossing Inn (shown in the lower picture) donned costumes of Colonial days. Around the table from left to right are Stephen Zettler, four; Mrs. Herman Zettler and Michael Zettler; standing from left to right are Elizabeth Bassett, Edward Breece, Carrie Wittenborn, Eleanor Sket, and Karlin Zettler, six.

Gives New Slant To Jr. Executive; Can't Locate Any

By Hal Boyle
NEW YORK—AP—What is a junior executive? You hear more and more about this character. But he seems to me a pretty mysterious and will-o'-the-wisp fellow, and I am not sure he really exists at all. I am beginning to think he is just a figment of somebody's imagination. No one can tell me for sure what a junior executive really is, because nobody ever seems to have met one in the flesh. Go up to anyone you know who works in an office for a living and ask, "are you a junior executive?" He may flush with embarrassed pleasure or turn upon you in cold anger, but he is certain to answer, "who, me? Of course not." Everybody has heard of junior executives, but nobody will admit he is one. That's why I don't think there really are any. Opinion varies as to just what a junior executive is. Some people think of him as a fine clean modest alert young man who has climbed the first rung of the ladder of success. Others see him as merely a young stuffed shirt, a petty office tyrant who tries to get ahead by aping the real executives. That's part of the mystery of the junior executive—let's anything you want to believe he is. A would-be boss in rompers, or industry's new type Horatio Alger. And nobody seems to know for sure just what his job is except to sit around and wait for the senior executive to drop dead. The clearest picture of the business world is given in the magazine ads. You see two fine old senior executives discussing a busy young man seated at a desk in the background. One says, "I've got Bill here in mind for a top management job. He came to me and suggested, 'Let's switch to using Blotto typewriter ribbons.' Well, I did as he suggested, and that's why our business tripled last month. Keep your eye on Bill." This romantic vision of the junior executive as a bright young man with simple, but overwhelmingly successful ideas is becoming more and more popular. Clothing is being designed to "give that junior executive look." Banks are pleading: "Are you the junior executive type? Borrow from us—anything from $50 to $100, more or less, payable back in two lifetimes." Even motor car models are now "styled for the junior executive."

Police Probe Theft Series

Police were asked yesterday to investigate a number of burglaries and larcenies. Mrs. Emily Wigley of 32 South Clinton Avenue said that a sign reading "Beauty Salon" and worth $39 was stolen from in front of her place during the night. A thief broke two candy vending machines and took 100 nickels from them at the Strand Theater, Hermitage and Edgewood Avenues. A thief broke into the Colonial restaurant at 252 North Broad Street and got $7 in pennies. Thirteen fifths of whiskey and $45 in cash were stolen from a liquor store at 468 North Clinton Avenue. The theft was reported by the owner, Olympic Mercan-

France Will Send New Envoy to Reds

An Informal Chat
